

GRABAU ARRESTED.

Looked Up on a Charge of Causing Mr. Baer's Death.

Held on a Warrant Which Charges Him with Homicide.

Taken to the Eldridge Street Station Shortly Before Noon.

John H. Grabau, the brakeman on the Second Avenue Elevated Road, who is said to be mainly responsible for the death of young Mr. Baer, who fell into the street from Grabau's train Thursday evening, was taken into the Eldridge street police station shortly after 11 o'clock this morning by Detective Reap, to whom he had surrendered himself by direction of Col. Hain.

He was locked up on a charge of homicide, which is not reliable.

The police had a good deal of trouble in getting hold of him.

His address in the directory is 548 East Twelfth street. An EVENING WORLD reporter called there to see him to-day, but learned that he had moved some time ago. Where he had gone to the other tenants in the house did not know.

He is a married man and has a family. His badge number is 772.

Ward Detective M. H. Reap did not go to bed last night. He spent the night searching for Grabau. He had him corralled once yesterday, down in Col. Hain's office, at 79 Broadway, but the corporation magistrates refused to give him up.

"I am an officer and was addressed," said Mr. Reap.

A gentleman, who was addressed as Judge, but whose name Detective Reap did not get, replied:

"This case is in the hands of the coroner. If he wants him let him send for him and we will produce the guard."

"But I must produce him in court before a police magistrate," demurred Reap.

"Oh, that is not at all necessary," returned the judge.

The detective then asked the guard's name and number, which was also refused. It was sent later to the Eldridge street station, and Reap procured a warrant for his arrest.

He also obtained a warrant for the arrest of Theodore Neuburger, the rear guard on the train. He arrested him this morning and arraigned him in the Essex Market Police Court.

Neuburger was discharged, as he swore that he knew nothing of the tragedy and there was no evidence to the contrary.

He and Capt. Cassidy are both very wrathful against the "L" road people for their efforts to shield Grabau.

Col. Hain said yesterday in an interview printed in two morning papers:

"The affair was not very bad, but the guard was only obeying the orders of the company, that the gates shall not be opened twice for any cause at any one station. This rule is backed by an act of the Legislature of 1881."

"But don't you think the guard should have shown some common sense and opened the gate in a case of life or death like this?"

"Well, if I or one of my lieutenants had been there we should have ordered the guard to open the gate at any one station. This rule is backed by an act of the Legislature of 1881."

Only one of the many witnesses who saw Grabau's action has a word to say in his favor. He is a gentleman named Hall, who works in Butler Brothers' notion store at 280 Broadway.

All he can say, however, is that the guard did not once succeed in showing Mr. Baer off the platform, as has been stated.

The skull was fractured when the unfortunate man fell face downward in the street.

Mr. Baer was a handsome man, but his features were bruised almost beyond recognition by his fall into the street.

Deputy Coroner O'Meara made an examination of the dead man's body and found that death had been caused by a fracture of the skull. The right arm and left leg had also been broken. They were broken by his collision with the guard rail on the end of the platform, and would not have caused death.

The body was removed from the under-taker's shop in Liddle street to his home in Harlem yesterday. His wife, owing to the shock of her husband's terrible death, has been dangerously ill ever since. The funeral will be on Monday.

REICH'S IMPENDING DOOM.

The Wife Murderer Drops in His Cell While Friends Plan to Save His Life.

Adolph Reich, the wife murderer, has just been moved by Warden Osborne from the old prison to the new one in the Tombs. On the 20th of this month the death watch will be set upon him.

Reich is a prey to the deepest despondency. He will sit with a melancholy air, listless eyes and drooping frame for hours.

Several German citizens are interesting themselves to obtain from Gov. Hill a commission of Reich's sentence from the death penalty to imprisonment for life.

"There is no doubt," said a prominent German, "but that there were extenuating circumstances even in Reich's crime. If he had had a skillful lawyer this case would have been presented with the force which was possible to him. The jury felt that the man was entitled to a careful consideration, and a petition to Gov. Hill will set forth these reasons. If enough names can be procured to make it avail, and I hope the poor wretch may be only imprisoned for life."

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.

When she was a child, she cried for Castoria.

When she became a woman, she gave to Castoria.

When she had children, she gave them Castoria.

TO SUCCED PRESIDENT FORSTER.

Several Prominent Gentlemen Whom the Tammany Chief Have in Mind.

Tammany Hall is anxious for the selection of the best possible man to fill the vacancy caused by the death of President Forster, of the Board of Aldermen.

Among the able gentlemen who have been suggested for the position are Gen. John Cochran, Congressman W. Bourke Cockran and ex-Judge Tappan.

Although the County Democracy leaders still insist that the Board of Aldermen has no right to fill the vacancy, the proposition of this EVENING WORLD that such power does exist in the Board is proved to be correct by chapter 392, laws of 1907.

This is the act introduced by Assemblyman Rhea, providing for two Aldermen from the Twenty-fourth Assembly District. The act refers to the President as a member of the Board and provides for the filling of a vacancy caused by the death of a member by the vote of a majority of the members elected to the Board.

The objection that the term of office of the President is two years is disposed of by the provision that the person so selected to fill the vacancy shall only hold office till Jan. 1 following, and the certified term shall be filed at the next general election.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

Cottier and Kaiser's Claims to the County Clerkship Still Unsettled.

Until the Supervisors of Election make their count the disputed office of County Clerk, which John Cottier and William J. Kaiser both claim, cannot be settled.

The battle is waged with varying success. One day Cottier's majority is 44, and the next day Kaiser has a majority of 407.

Brooklyn News in Brief.

Peter Murlough's house, 225 Evergreen avenue, was damaged $500 by fire last night.

Mary Bailey, of the Williams street, was removed to the Chelsea Hospital this morning suffering from an overdose of morphine.

William Woodford, an agent, of 78 Sands street, was held by James Walsh this morning on a charge of stealing $20 worth of clothing from Peter Ronald, of 113 Henry street.

The Brooklyn police to-day sent out an alarm to look out for a diamond bracelet stolen from a lady on the morning of Nov. 8.

Among the victims of the more robberies reported to the Brooklyn police this morning are Henry Cannon, of 161 Dan street; W. Allen, 123 Harrison street; Simon Waldron, 123 Dan street; John Hennehan, Pearl and Water streets; Mrs. Mary Hayes, 79 Backett street, and Miss V. M. Carter, in Clinton street. They lost all clothing or jewelry.

$325 IN JEWELS.

Missing from Mrs. Gaynor's Bracelet When She Got Home.

ON FRIDAY evening, on Broadway, between 14th and 15th streets, a diamond bracelet setting containing five diamonds and four pearls, valued at $325, was found on returning home to Mrs. W. Gaynor, 123 Broadway.

Mrs. Gaynor showed her bracelet, minus the jewels, to an EVENING WORLD reporter to-day.

"The bracelet was a wedding present," said she, "and I feel the loss more keenly on that account. It was a very handsome setting and was worth about $325."

"I did not think that they were gone until I got into a Broadway street car and found that I had lost them. I am sure that I lost them when I alighted from the car and when I entered my room."

"I had a thorough search for them, immediately after I missed them, which was only about five minutes. I even prevailed upon the police to search for them, but they were not found."

"The stock market was dull to-day, with very little change in prices."

THE DAY IN WALL STREET.

The New York City banks lost $1,722,000 in surplus reserve for the week. Every item in the statement shows a decrease. A contraction of $1,044,000 in circulation is the most striking feature of the exhibit. The banks now hold $1,044,000 in excess of legal requirements. The following are the comparative figures:
